

ive Sunday school worker. He gave the audience the benefit of some of his experiences and some of his knowledge of children as church workers. His was an eloquent plea for closer and better attention to the children. Mr. Crenshaw said, "If the white boy and white girl need the best teachers, the best instructors and the best surroundings to make them good, our boys and our girls need equally as much. They are children, they are human and they assimilate; thus it behooves us as parents and instructors to guard every condition and advance every opportunity to better the instruction as well as the instructor. The fact that the child of to-day in the Sunday school will be the church of to-morrow, has already been forcibly impressed upon you, and this movement to-day is calculated to bring the best results in future years." "I have known the manager," continued Mr. Crenshaw, "from his boyhood days, and certainly pride myself as being one of his early instructors. If he has accomplished anything, I feel proud and I am certainly interested in everything that he undertakes."

After this address the manager announced that the program would conclude with the singing of one of Mr. Rosborough's compositions from Celestial Showers, No. 2. The entire audience joined in rendering this song. The echoes of the music rang throughout the park, filling the air with the strains of music produced by the voices of the Christian workers who had gathered to honor this occasion. The benediction was pronounced by Rev. James Slaughter. Then the children, in their glee, with their teachers and superintendents, strolled in every direction through the park; some climbed the hills, resting beneath the tall, stately shade trees, others found their way to the merry-go-round, while hundreds seated themselves on the large porch of the Club House. It was seven o'clock in the evening before the crowd left the park. All are of the opinion that the first Union Children's Day in Nashville was a success.

MISS MOORE TO DEMONSTRATE.

The appointment of Miss Elizabeth Moore, of 926 Seventeenth avenue, North, by the Nashville Gas Company as one of their demonstrators with the new gas stoves, is a distinct recognition of the ability of this young woman, who has long since been known as one of the best culinary artists in the city. Miss Moore has studied under some of the ablest of the profession that have come South. She deserves this recognition and will prove by her demonstration to the classes that will take advantage of these lessons, that she is a proficient teacher.

Miss Moore is to demonstrate every day next week, at 1509 Church street. On Monday, Wednesday and Friday the public exhibition will begin at 2:30 and continue until 4:30 p. m. On Tuesday and Thursday they will begin at 7:30 and continue until 9:30 p. m. This has been so divided up in order that every one will have an opportunity to see what a gas stove or range can do. The lessons, as well as the exhibitions, are absolutely free.

The Gas Company has employed heretofore only white demonstrators, but they are recognizing in this appointment the ability of our own people. It is hoped that a large attendance will be present each day and help to convince others that we believe in the advancement being made by the young people.

Miss Moore is a graduate of Fisk University. She is a daughter of Rev. and Mrs. Geo. W. Moore of this city and held an honored position for several years at the school in Albany, Ga.

THOMAS HENRY ELLIOTT, M. D.

To those who are disposed to take the more hopeful or optimistic view of the progress of the race, we invite attention to the following sketch of a truly deserving young man, which demonstrates the value of Christian training as a stimulus to that thorough preparation for successful professional life.

Thomas Henry Elliott was born in Buford County, Tenn., educated in the common schools of the county, and taught in the county schools for seven years. He subsequently entered the High School at Lebanon, and graduated therefrom with honor. His splendid record as a conscientious painstaking student led the trustees to tender him the appointment as Principal of the Lebanon High School, which position he filled with eminent satisfaction for several years.

Recognizing the necessity of more thorough training for the great work in which he wished to devote his time, energies and life, young Elliott entered Walden University, graduating from the College Course with the Degree of B. S. As one of his teachers during his closing year in the scientific course, the writer of this sketch had an opportunity of knowing more of the disposition and character of this most promising young man. The teacher recognized in him the elements of leadership. He was broad, courageous, conservative, well poised and balanced, and added to all these was his sturdy Christian spirit. The young student entered Meharry Medical College and completed the Course of Study with honor, graduating with the Class of 1906. He passed successfully the examination before the State Board of Examiners, receiving well-merited recognition. He has been for the last year one of the Faculty of Meharry Medical School, and has rendered most acceptable service. He is a member of St. John African Methodist Episcopal Church in this city, has served as Superintendent of the Sunday School, and has made a splendid impression upon all with whom he has been associated.

One of the most important if, indeed, not the most important events of his life occurred at Shelbyville, Tenn., on the 12th of June, when he led Miss Sallie Rainey, a most excellent young lady, to the altar. Miss Rainey is also a graduate of Walden University, and will be a splendid accession to the professional roster of that institution. After June 12, Dr. and Mrs. Elliott will receive their friends and patrons at 109 First Avenue, South, Nashville, Tenn.

GLEE CLUB ENTERTAINS.

Last Wednesday night, June 5, at the residence of Mrs. W. A. Hadley was given one of the most enjoyable affairs of the season by the Knowles School Glee Club boys. Games and music were the features of the evening. The two spacious parlors were beautifully decorated with the club colors, blue and white. Palms and cut flowers were also used in the decorations. At a late hour the company was ushered to the dining-room, where they were served with salad, fruits and ices. From the ceiling was suspended a lovely bell from which blue and white ribbon streamers were fastened to each corner of the table. Those present among the teachers were Mesdames E. M. Dickerson and Carrie Brown, Miss Cornelia Bailey and Dr. J. P. Crawford. Misses Blanche Baker, Georgia Connell, Emma Williams, Beatrice Johnson, Annie Henderson, Amelia Carpenter, Florence Montague, Nettie Andrews, Savannah Matthews, Julia Pope, Mabel Paschall, Anna Young, Messrs. Curly Church, Arthur Fite, Wm. Smith, Felix Harding, Ruben Richardson, Quinton Gleaves, Frank Smith, Jr., James Johnson, Samuel Johnson, Nelson Jackson.

ENJOYABLE PICNIC.

Purity Lodge, No. 42, and Heliotrope Court, No. 18, gave their annual picnic at Wooddale Grove, June 10, 1907. The day was a most beautiful one, which permitted the picnickers to enjoy themselves throughout the day. The Knights of Benevolent Society consolidated with Purity Lodge on this occasion, which made it more successful from a financial standpoint. The boat left for Wooddale Grove about 10:30 o'clock and made the trip within an hour. During the whole day the I. O. I. Band furnished splendid music, as did also a string band of five or six pieces, for those who wished to enjoy dancing. Mr. Tom Wells, the well-known caterer, with his corps of men furnished the 500 people with all kinds of refreshments. The boat left the grove at 5 o'clock, landing in the city at 5:45 o'clock.

JOHNSON—BOWSER WEDDING.

A marriage characterized by extreme simplicity of detail, but of rare beauty in execution, was that of Miss Fannie Jane Bowser to Rev. James A. Johnson, of Oklahoma City, solemnized at Lea Avenue Christian Church June 5, at 8 o'clock. The church was beautifully decorated with palms and rubber plants, which formed a beautiful background for the bridal party which stood in a semi-circle in front of them. Rev. Preston Taylor performed the impressive ceremony before a large audience, after speaking in glowing terms of the bride, who has been a member of the church from childhood. The bride was a picture of rare beauty in an organdy gown trimmed in baby Irish lace, and a tulle veil caught with orange blossoms. Her bouquet was of ferns and brides roses with white satin streamers. Mr. Kelly gave the bride away, meeting the groom and his best man, Prof. J. W. Johnson, of Columbia, at the sacred altar. The bridesmaids were Misses Pinkie Mayberry, Lady B. Stringer, Magnolia Daniels, of Columbia, Elnora Beaden and Saloom Harris, who was maid of honor. They wore white organdy with pink and green sashes, and carried bouquets of pink carnations and maiden hair ferns. The groomsmen were Messrs. F. A. Dawson, Wm. D. Boger, — Patterson, Wm. C. Fox and Walter Abernathy. A reception was held at the bride's home on Fifth Avenue, South, where many friends gathered to extend hearty congratulations. A three-course menu was served. Many handsome and valuable presents were received in silver, china, cut glass and linen.

The bride and groom left on the 11:30 train for their future home, Oklahoma City, where the groom is one of the leading pastors of the A. M. E. Church. Showers of rice were abundant. The bride, the only daughter of Mrs. C. E. Bowser, has been a teacher in the public schools of Nashville for many years, having finished the normal course of Roger Williams University in 1887. She has not only taught in Tennessee, but in Texas. She made an efficient teacher. She was prominent in church and society work from which she will be missed.
